Allianz

Uniquely positioned to meet the needs of the aerospace industry

Aerospace is a diverse and dynamic industry. From major airframe, engine and component part manufacturers to international airports and ground services, each segment faces its own special challenges. All are forced to compete in a fast-paced, high tech environment continually impacted by evolving customer needs and economic conditions.

Protecting aerospace businesses requires a reliable, professional partner – one with a wealth of experience and an in-depth understanding of the aerospace industry.

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty® has been involved in aviation for almost a century. This experience combined with our ability to provide a flexible approach to coverage has earned us a reputation as one of the leading Aerospace insurers in the world.

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty consistently achieves strong ratings for financial stability: AA (‘Very Strong’) from Standard & Poor’s and A+ (‘Superior’) from A.M. Best.

Unparalleled expertise and resources

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty has assembled a highly-skilled global network of Aerospace underwriters, risk consultants, market managers and claims professionals. These professionals are well-recognized in the industry and bring a superior level of insight, expertise, creativity and enthusiasm to the clients and brokers we serve.

We have one of the most expansive global and local networks of any Aerospace insurer – serving clients on five continents, in 150 countries. This ensures clients and their brokers have immediate access to support where and when it is needed.

The capacity and financial security aerospace clients demand

Our underwriting capacity and AA rated financial security allows us to act as lead insurer for the largest of clients and to provide 100% cover on specialist risks within this sector.

Our clients come from throughout the industry – ranging from niche suppliers to international Fortune 500® enterprises, including:

- Prime airframe manufacturers
- Engine and avionics manufacturers
- Component part manufacturers
- International airports
- Regional and local airfields
- Maintenance, repair & overhaul providers
- Air traffic control
- Suppliers and caterers
- Ground handlers
- Refuelers & service providers
- Airport contractors

Solutions and services tailored to meet the needs of the situation

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty's seasoned Aerospace underwriters are problem solvers. Clients and brokers benefit from a high level of insight and know-how that provides a competitive edge.

We customize cover to meet the specific requirements of the client. This flexible, tailored approach allows us to offer the most appropriate solutions for the client's needs, including:

- Manufacturers & Suppliers Liability (including critical and non-critical components)
- Manufacturers Hull coverage
- Airport Operations Liability
- Hangarkeepers Liability
- Products and Completed Operations
- Terminal Buildings Liability
- Pollution Liability
- Commercial Vehicle Coverage
- Non-Owned Aircraft Liability
- Control Tower/Helipad Liability
- Premises Liability
- Airside Liability
- Ferry Flights

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty Underwriting Services

- Risk evaluation
- Insurance program design and implementation
- Contract analysis
- Alternative risk transfer concepts

In addition to working with clients to protect their Aerospace assets, we can work in concert with Engineering, Marine and other related Allianz groups across the globe to provide a seamless insurance and risk control program. Our International Insurance Programs offer companies with global locations economies of scale; operational efficiencies; program consistency on a worldwide basis; coordinated risk control and assessment; and centrally-managed claims monitoring/coordination with local claims handling.

Risk Control that reduces and manages risk and controls insurance costs

Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty risk consultants are some of the most knowledgeable experts in the specialist sector of aerospace risk management. Our multi-disciplined team is staffed by experienced risk consultants, master engineers, pilots, attorneys and industry experts. Their goal is to help clients manage, mitigate and control risks that may jeopardize the success of their operations. For example, our risk control program for ground handling operations offers clients and their brokers:

- Risk Assessment in the field using advanced quantitative and qualitative tools
- Risk Analysis with a report highlighting exposure to hazards, means of control and best practice measures
- Risk Grading with the possibility to compare different locations of operations on the same comprehensive basis

Industry-leading claims service

No matter how carefully you plan, losses can happen. A claim is a defining moment in our service – the moment when we deliver on our promise. Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty is committed to delivering on this promise.

We understand that fast service and efficient claims handling are essential to help our clients resume their operations and manage their day-to-day business as quickly as possible. We pledge that as our client, you will receive prompt responses, full investigations, productive communications and the best resolutions possible. Allianz Global Corporate & Specialty's financial strength and stability offer clients and their brokers the peace of mind of superior claims paying ability. We maintain one of the most knowledgeable Aerospace claims teams in the industry. Our claims professionals, adjusters and surveyors have many years of hands-on expertise with Aerospace claims.

A commitment to delivering an exceptional customer experience

Our success lies in the quality of the relationships we forge with our clients and brokers – relationships that are built on credibility, trust, candid communication, transparency and unwavering dedication to doing what we promise. We take a long-term view of our partnerships with clients, some of whom have been with us for several decades. To this end, clients and brokers receive a level of service that is highly responsive and personal.

Our global claims network keeps service close to the customer and ensures we have the resources to respond quickly – anywhere in the world.
